AbbVie Contract Manufacturing Twitter Community Guidelines

Welcome to AbbVie Contract Manufacturing global corporate Twitter handle, managed by our contract manufacturing team. We use this community to share stories about our services and expertise around the world.

We welcome the opportunity to hear from you on Twitter. When we see mentions of and replies to @abbvieCM, we ask that you follow these Community Guidelines to ensure we provide you the best experience.

Please remember that we work in a highly-regulated industry with unique legal considerations. We are not allowed to engage in sensitive topics or discussions about our products, other companies’ products or treatment options. These discussions are best held in private with a health care professional.

Because of these regulations, discussions need to be on-topic and constructive. For this reason, we may not be able to respond to mentions or replies that:

- Name our or other companies’;
- Offer health or medical advice;
- Include profanity, defamatory, libelous, offensive, abusive, discriminatory or demeaning content, including images, videos and links;
- Are disparaging, threatening, condone violence or illegal behavior;
- Contain personal information, like the names of individuals, email addresses, phone numbers, personal photos or videos;
- Contain proprietary, confidential, sensitive or nonpublic information;
- Violates copyright or intellectual property;
- Are commercial in nature with an intent to sell products and services, or recruit fans and followers to other social communities;
- Contain information that is false, inaccurate or misleading;
- Mention of any product solicitation for another company;
- Are excessively repetitive and/or disruptive to the community (SPAM); or
- Violates Twitter Platform Terms.

Twitter accounts that AbbVie Contract Manufacturing follows and content that AbbVie Contract Manufacturing favorites or retweets are not an indication of AbbVie or AbbVie Contract Manufacturing’s endorsement of these accounts or the content they produce. Nor is it an

Medical side effects

If you believe you have experienced any medical side effects from an AbbVie product, please consult your physician, pharmacist or other health professional immediately. You can report this, a product issue or product question to us directly by using the medical information form found on abbvie.com.

We suggest you avoid sharing specific information concerning your personal health on Twitter, other social media sites and the internet in general. Should you decide to direct message us @abbvieCMO in order to detail any side effects or report a complaint, we may need to contact you for more information, such as your email address, in order to assist you.

Using and storing personal identifying information

AbbVie Contract Manufacturing will not disclose or share personal identifying information on its Twitter handle unless we have obtained proper consent. We do not store or use your Twitter profile unique ID, email or other personal identifying information. However, in the case of reporting a side effect or product issue, we will need to store and use personal identifying information, such as your name, location, health-related information or similar, in accordance with applicable laws. This information is required to be submitted to the AbbVie Pharmacovigilance and Patient Safety department and/or regulatory authorities. We are also required to store your personal identifying information for auditing purposes.

In some instances AbbVie Contract Manufacturing may choose to use third-party service providers to help us manage comments and messages, which means that they too would have access to any personal identifying information you share with us. Such third-party service providers are contractually bound and trained to ensure an adequate protection and security of your personal identifying information.

Please note that Twitter also has access to information you share with us. For more details please refer to the Twitter Privacy Policy.
Thank you for reading and for following @abbviecm on Twitter.
